PREFATORY NOTE

Mr. Symons is known throughout England not only as one of the most reliable authorities upon English, Continental and Oriental porcelain of the eighteenth century, but also as a discriminating collector of old English and French furniture, early bronzes and objects of art in general.

His collection of old English porcelains and potteries can be with difficulty paralleled outside of some of the great English museums.

It consists of examples from all the most highly regarded factories, such as that of Bristol, Plymouth, Bow, Chelsea, Worcester, Derby, Pinxton, Swansea, Nantgarw, Longton Hall and Spode. Included among these will be found a most important collection of rare square and crescent marked Worcester, among which is an especially noteworthy garniture of three blue ground vases. There are also a number of fine early Chelsea, Bow and Derby vases, and an exceptional variety of other decorative pieces. Of especial interest is the collection of nearly three hundred pieces of Bow, Bristol, Chelsea, Chelsea-Derby, Derby and Longton Hall statuettes, which includes an unusually rare set of Bristol figures of the "Four Continents" and a number of Chelsea figures modeled by Roubiliac and Bacon, as well as an interesting group of Derby biscuit figures modeled by Spengler and Stephan.

The collection of Wedgwood is especially rich in crystalline and basaltes vases of the Wedgwood & Bentley period, and is distinguished by the possession of a Portland vase which has been positively identified by the leading Wedgwood authorities as being one of the famous "Fifty."

The English potteries include salt glaze, early English Delft and the Lady Anna Chandos-Pole Collection of old Leeds ware.

Among the English furniture in oak are Court Cupboards and dower chests, high-backed chairs, settees, and a very exceptional Day bed signed by its maker. The mahogany is rich in examples of Chippendale, by whom there are three exceptional armchairs, and a very fine fourpost bedstead. There are some fine Sheraton tables and escritoire bookcases. The satinwood includes Sheraton bookcases, a dressing table with original fittings, and inlaid and painted writing tables. There are, too, some pieces of the Queen Anne period, including the celebrated Rushout Lacquer Cabinet and Stand. There are a very fine pair of Adam torchères and a Hepplewhite screen in the Chinese taste, an Adam chandelier of cut glass, knife urns and a number of important mirrors by Chippendale and his contemporaries. The French furniture includes a fine upright escritoire signed by P. Roussel, a Louis Seize Sedan chair decorated with Vernis Martin panels and in absolutely original condition, and a most exceptional carved applewood marriage-chest of the early sixteenth century.

The gathering of clocks is an extraordinarily rich one. Among those of the Louis XVI period are one surmounted by a marble figure sculptured by Falconet, a "Reading and Writing" clock and an "Elephant" clock. In addition to these is a marvelous collection of over thirty clocks made by English makers of the eighteenth century in ormolu cases decorated with enamels, and with panels of surprisingly ingenious moving subjects. Some of these clocks, which were originally made for presentation to Chinese princes and mandarins, have made the journey to the Orient and found their way back to Europe. There are a number of English clocks of the eighteenth century, including a lacquered bracket clock by Tomlinson, a tall Queen Anne lacquered clock by George Tyler, several brass lantern clocks, one of them fitted with chimes, and the famous Orrery of "honest" George Graham, a leading English clockmaker of the eighteenth century.

The collection of bronzes covers a wide range, extending from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries. Of the period of the Italian Renaissance are a figure of the infant Hercules Strangling a Serpent, and a fine door knocker. The French bronzes include examples of the schools of Pigalle and Clodion, as well as of the Empire period, while of the modern bronzes the most important is a magnificent portrait bust, by Rodin, of the English poet and friend of Stevenson, the late W. E. Henley. This is the original from which was taken the marble replica now in Saint Paul's Cathedral.

The textiles consist of fine tapestries, among them a large panel of Brussels tapestry after a design by Van de Velde the elder, and a remarkable collection of pctit point consisting of many individual panels, one suite of six chairs, another of two settees, two armchairs, and several single chairs, in old walnut and oak frames.

The extensive collection of objects of art is headed by what is probably the finest Italian Renaissance cabinet of the School of Cellini ever brought to this country. It is of carved steel, damascened with gold, in a series of subjects taken from Tasso's great poem, "Jerusalem Delivered."

There is a suit of sixteenth century German armor, as also a few choice sixteenth and seventeenth century Limoges enamels (some in their original frames), sixteenth and seventeenth century boxwood and ivory carvings, engraved and mounted crystals of the same period including a gold and enamel mounted tazza, some good miniatures of the sixteenth and seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, Battersea enamels, including one of the most important vases ever produced, and a number of boxes mounted in gold with miniature paintings.

Of especial interest will be found the celebrated Buccleuch collection of glass of over two hundred pieces. Included in this are examples of early Venetian and seventeenth century German engraved, cut and enameled glass. The collection was formed by the late Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry, and it would be difficult to exaggerate its importance in view of the many years devoted by the Duke to its acquisition and the unvarying fine quality of the pieces so acquired.

A word may be said as to the famous collections which are represented in this gathering. They include those of the Dowager Duchess of Newcastle, The Dowager Marchioness of Conyngham, Lady Anna Chandos-Pole, Lord Joicey of Greg-y-nog Castle, The Earl of Northesk, Lady Menzies of Castle Menzies, Lieut. Col. H. B. Hughes, Sir William Bass, Capt. Ernle Warriner, T. H. Faudel-Phillips, Capt. M. H. Grant, "Linesman" Alfred Trapnell, L. M. Solon and many others.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Buying or bidding by the Association for responsible parties on orders transmitted to it by mail, telegraph or telephone, will be faithfully attended to without charge or commission. Any purchase so made will be subject to the above Conditions of Sale, which cannot in any manner be modified. The Association, however, in the event of making a purchase of a lot consisting of one or more books for a purchaser who has not, through himself or his agent, been present at the exhibition or sale, will permit such lot to be returned within ten days from the date of sale, and the purchase money will be returned, if the lot in any material manner differs from its catalogue description.

Orders for execution by the Association should be written and given with such plainness as to leave no room for misunderstanding. Not only should the lot number be given, but also the title, and bids should be stated to be so much for the lot, and when the lot consists of one or more volumes of books or objects of art, the bid per volume or piece should also be stated. If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Association, a deposit should be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

Priced copies of the catalogue of any sale, or any session thereof, will be furnished by the Association at a reasonable charge.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Subsequent to the time when Mr. Symons completed arrangements with the Association for the public sale of his property which had been brought by him from London to be here sold owing to conditions occasioned by the war, he has had sent to this country, and added to his property to be offered for sale, a number of items of extraordinary importance and value.

To prevent the possibility of too great a sacrifice of these unusual pieces,—which are less than fifty in number and the majority of which are included in the last session of the sale—Mr. Symons has requested of the Association, and it has granted him, the privilege of placing on them a reasonable upset price, and such reserves will be announced at the time when each of such objects is offered.

With the exception of the few items upon which such upset prices may be placed, the collection will be sold in strict conformity with the Association's customary agreement, which provides for an unrestricted and unlimited public sale.

FIRST SESSION

MONDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 15, 1915

AT THE AMERICAN ART GALLERIES

BEGINNING AT 2.00 o'CLOCK

Which includes Catalogue Nos. 1 to 275

OLD ENGLISH POTTERIES

Including Staffordshire, Leeds and Luster Wares, and Rare
Ralph Wood Figures

The noteworthy favor bestowed in recent years upon English Porcelains has embraced also those products of the English potters which so distinguished the late Eighteenth century. Such especial value, for instance, attaches to fine examples of old Leeds ware, that it is increasingly difficult to procure examples of undoubted authenticity. Even less frequently are those admirable figures by Ralph Wood which, in their modeling, rival the statuettes of Dresden and Chelsea, offered to the contemporary collector.

1—SIX OLD LEEDS AND STAFFORDSHIRE WARE CREAM EWERS

Of various shapes, and styles of decoration.

2—OLD LEEDS WARE PLATE

Decorated with a reeded border in black—center occupied by an oval medallion containing a black transfer-printed portrait of a man in wig.

3—THREE OLD LEEDS PLATES

(A) Cream-colored glaze, decorated in sepia on cream-colored ground and also decorated in transfer with square rigged ship in full sail and floral sprays.

(B) Decorated with oval medallion of allegorical subject with inscription "Let wisdom unite us" and with trophies of game birds and butterflies.

(C) Decorated with a convivial subject of Topers seated around a table and with floral sprays.

First Session, Monday Afternoon

4—OLD LEEDS POTTERY PLATE

About 1775. Cream-colored glaze with pierced border. Center occupied by circular medallion surrounded by deep border of flutings and occupied by a painting, in colors, of a man in eighteenth century costume, seated, and with a dog at his side.

9 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

5—PAIR OF STAFFORDSHIRE BOWLS

Cream-colored glaze. Basket shape, with pierced borders. The lower portions of interlaced basket work. Scrolled ear handles. Circular pierced bases.

Height, 4 inches.

6—PAIR OF OLD LEEDS SAUCE BOATS

Cream ware, with fluted looped handles and circular bases. Decorated with Greek honeysuckle and scroll decorations in relief and painted in black and red.

Height, 6 inches; length, 9 inches.

7—OLD LEEDS COFFEE-POT

Cream ware. Barrel-shaped body, with fluted curved and acanthus-leaf spout and fluted looped handle terminating in Bacchic heads. Flat cover, with painted finial. Body is decorated with reeded bands and with very elaborately painted figures of Amphitrite drawn by dolphins in a chariot formed of a seashell, and of Venus drawn by peacocks in a classical chariot. The lid is decorated with painted butterflies.

Height, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

8—TWO PIECES OF AGATE WARE

Pitcher with a barrel-shaped body and flat looped handle, and a coupe-shaped bowl. The bodies are decorated with colored agate-ware glaze and with bands of blue glaze having a leaf pattern in white reserve.

*Height of pitcher, 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches.
Diameter of bowl, 5 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches.*

9—THREE PIECES OF LEEDS AGATE WARE

Teapot, pear-shape, curved spout, flat looped handle and domed cover. Sucier, with straight sides, raised ring handles and flat cover. Teapoy, with cylindrical body and small domed cover. Decorated with bands of colored agate, of blue glaze, and of a checker design in dark brown. Set consists of teapot and cover, sucier and cover, and teapoy and cover. (Slight repairs.)

First Session, Monday Afternoon

10—PAIR OF EIGHTEENTH CENTURY FRENCH FRUIT DISHES AND STANDS

AN EXTRAORDINARY GATHERING OF EARLY WEDGWOOD, JASPER, BASALTES AND CRYSTALLINE WARES

Including Vases, Tea-equipages, Plaques, Busts and one of the “First Fifty” Portland Vases

The colored jasper vases and other wares of Josiah Wedgwood have for long years found place among the discriminating collector's most prized acquisitions. Only in recent years, however, has equal attention been bestowed upon the crystalline and pebble wares which he and his partner Bentley carried to so unrivaled a pitch of perfection. To-day the finer specimens of these wares are sought after with such eagerness that they come upon the market but seldom.

150—THE WEDGWOOD PORTLAND VASE

1789-1798. Blue-black and white jasper. Reproduction of the famous Portland or Barberini vase. One of the so-called "First Fifty." The white reliefs carefully worked over and remodeled as to some details before firing.

Height, 10 inches.

Inseparably connected with the name of Josiah Wedgwood are his reproductions, in his celebrated jasper-body, of the Portland or Barberini Vase.

The original vase is of very dark blue glass, originally entirely covered with a layer of opaque white glass, which was cut away by the artist to produce the design in a cameo effect. That Wedgwood should have succeeded in so closely translating the light and color effects of this glass cameo into so foreign a language as his jasper-body is proof not only of the efficient aid rendered to him by his modelers, but also of his own supreme skill as a potter.

That every collector of Wedgwood should burn with desire to possess, not only a Portland Vase, but one of the far-famed "First Fifty," is therefore but natural. Modern, and comparatively modern, copies have become familiar by constant repetition, but it is only rarely that the collector is privileged even to see an eighteenth century example. The fact is, that during Wedgwood's own lifetime no more than twenty copies were actually produced, the remaining thirty coming into existence when Josiah, Jr., controlled the Wedgwood destinies.

However, during the five years that elapsed between the master's death and the end of the century, the standard of workmanship was in no degree lowered, and any vase therefore that was made before the year 1800 may be confidently acclaimed as one of the "First Fifty."

It hardly needs either the eye or the sense of touch of an expert to distinguish between one of these and the later productions. There is a satin-like—rather than a velvety—surface, a subtle refinement in the modeling of the raised surface, which only those craftsmen who had worked for long years under "Old Josiah's" own supervision were able to accomplish.

It is by this internal evidence that the present example declares itself as one of the "First Fifty." Its pedigree, though short, is convincing, for it came to its present owner, at first hand, from a descendant of an English country gentleman who purchased it in the closing years of the eighteenth century. It has been submitted to recognized authorities on "Old Wedgwood" both here and in London, and the verdict has in every case been passed without a moment's hesitation: "This is, without question, one of the original first fifty copies."

AT THE AMERICAN ART GALLERIES

BEGINNING AT 8.00 O'CLOCK

Which includes Catalogue Nos. 276 to 450A

THE DUKE OF BUCCLEUCH'S FAMOUS COLLECTION OF SIXTEENTH AND SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGRAVED AND ENAMELED GLASS

This collection, which for many years formed one of the glories of Montagu House in London, was gathered together by the Fifth Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry, the grandfather of the present Duke. It passed out of the hands of the late Duke (the sixth of that name) into those of its present successor some five or six years ago in the course of the negotiations concerning the transfer of a collection of another character in which his Grace was interested. Formed at a time when artistic glassware of this description was less highly regarded than at present, it contains examples, such as the famous Reichs-adler pieces for instance, which could nowadays be reduplicated with the greatest difficulty. It is particularly rich, however, in examples of the skill with the wheel and gravers of such artists as Caspar Lehmann and the Schwanharts, who attained their eminence under the patronage of the Emperor Ferdinand III.

276—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY GERMAN BEAKER

Sixty-eight octagonal shape. Decorated with cut bandings of a reeded pattern.

THIRD SESSION

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 16, 1915

AT THE AMERICAN ART GALLERIES

BEGINNING AT 2.00 O'CLOCK

Which includes Catalogue Nos. 451 to 723

FINE EXAMPLES OF OLD CRESCENT-MARKED WORCESTER AND CHELSEA PORCELAINS

Among the makers of those English porcelains whose technical excellence so distinguished the latter half of the Eighteenth Century some few factories attained artistic pre-eminence. Among these are to be included the makers of Worcester, of Chelsea, Bow, Bristol, Derby and Chelsea-Derby. As a consequence, fine examples of their productions have been so eagerly sought after that to-day they are rarely procurable save when the gathering of some noted collector is dispersed. So keen is the competition at these times that the most extravagant sums are offered for pieces of exceptional merit.

451—COLLECTION OF FOUR OLD WORCESTER AND CHELSEA CREAM EWERS
Of various shapes, sizes, decorations and marks.

452—COLLECTION OF FIVE OLD WORCESTER AND CHELSEA CREAM EWERS
Of various shapes, sizes, decorations and marks.

A MOST EXCEPTIONAL GATHERING OF OLD CHELSEA STATUETTES OF THE BEST PERIOD

For so many years have old "Chelsea China Figures" been regarded as the most desirable examples of English porcelains to acquire that to-day they are generally looked upon as the rare prizes of the collector's life-time. By many they are considered as preferable, in the freedom of their modeling and their characteristically English coloring, to the perhaps more technically perfect Meissen productions with which they were contemporaneous. However this may be, they have a very distinct attraction of their own, which perhaps accounts for the almost extravagant value placed upon them by their admirers.

505—OLD CHELSEA PORCELAIN BIRD

CHINESE LOWESTOFT CHINA OF EXCEPTIONAL RARITY AND BEAUTY

For many years the so-called Lowestoft porcelain of a hard paste body and decorated in the Oriental manner was held to be of English manufacture. It has now been conclusively settled that all this ware was made in China during the later Ch'ien-lung period, now known in many cases to order and always for direct importation into Europe. It is this fact that accounts for the armorial bearings and European flowers which so often form a part of the decoration. There was, however, a factory at Lowestoft in the eighteenth century which produced a soft paste porcelain, decorated in blue.

622—CHINESE LOWESTOFT PLATE

Circular shape with curved and scalloped edge. Decorated on a white ground in colored enamels heightened with gilding. The center is occupied by a Chinese figure subject of a Goddess seated in her triumphant car surrounded by her attendants who are carrying lanterns. There is an inner border of European character painted in red and gold and an outer border of shaped panels of white reserve and occupied with floral scrolls in colored enamels.

Height, 11½ inches.

623—PAIR OF CHINESE LOWESTOFT DEEP DISHES

Directoire period. Drum shaped case of ormolu supported by two obelisk columns of marble with applied ornamentations of ormolu, and surmounted by a marble and ormolu pineapple finial. On rectangular black marble base with four ormolu feet. White enamel dial with maker's name obliterated.

Height, 15 inches.

1266—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH LANTERN CLOCK

Brass case with arched top of brass, engraved brass "frets" pierced in a design of armorial shields and scrollings, and projecting engraved brass dial with Roman numerals. Signed on the front fret "Thomas Loomes" (London, 1630-1674).

Height, 15 inches.

1267—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH LANTERN CLOCK

Open case with turned brass columns at the angles, arched brass top and projecting dial of engraved brass. Single hand, and Roman numerals. Signed in the front, "Cousin, Versailles."

Height, 10½ inches.

NOTE: This clock is undoubtedly of English manufacture, although signed with the name of a French clock-maker.

1268—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH LANTERN CLOCK

Open sides with turned brass columns, brass urn finials and arched top of brass. Projecting dial of engraved brass with single pierced steel hand and Roman numerals.

Height, 10¼ inches.

1269—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

Square arched case of ebonized wood, with oval glass panels and medallions of Phoebus masks. White enamel dial, with Arabic numerals, pierced and engraved brass hands. Spandrels of floral sprays in gilt bronze. Above three medallions of Battersea enamel, one painted in a river scene and landscape subject. Bob pendulum movement. Strikes on two bells.

Height, 17 inches.

Sixth Session, Wednesday Evening

1270—OLD CHIPPENDALE CASE CARTEL CLOCK

Of the period and in the manner of Chippendale. Mahogany and gilt case, carved in a rococo design of scrollings, acanthus leaves and floral garlands. Painted dial with pierced steel hands.

Height, 30 inches.

1271—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH REPEATING CLOCK

Square mahogany case with molded base and domed cover. The clock has an engraved brass front plate, having a minute dial and a "Peeping Tom" opening displaying the hours. Affixed to this brass plate is a steel hook on which, at night time, can be suspended a pocket watch, the winding arbor of which is connected to a projecting key in the clock plate. The effect of this is that when the watch is hung up at night it is wound by the clock. The clock repeats the hours and quarters. There is a hinged engraved brass front pierced so as to show the face of the watch. Maker's name: Thomas Ogden. Halifax, 1729.

Height, 12½ inches.

NOTE: Ogden was a well-known Quaker watch maker of the eighteenth century. In the Parish Church of Halifax there is an entry in the Church Warden's Accounts under the date of 1725, "Thos. Ogden for mending Chimes 3 shillings."

1272—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET ALARM CLOCK

In ebonized case with domed and molded top and sides with glass panels. Engraved brass face with silver dial rim and single hand. Circular movement with engraved and pierced cock and cut steel pallet plate. Maker's name "John Snow" (of London).

Height, 12½ inches.

NOTE: This very early movement is especially interesting from the care expended in the decorations of the interior of the movement. "In the Coffee House of Simpson's 'Old Choppe House' is a lantern clock inscribed John Snow, and dated 1630." Britten, page 748.

1273—WILLIAM AND MARY HANGING CLOCK

Walnut case with molded cornice and arched pediment enclosing a fret work panel, and with a shaped bracket apron. Brass dial rim, and dial plate engraved with tulip flowers and scrolls. Single steel hand. Strikes the hours. Maker's name engraved on the front: Jacobus Markwick of London.

Height, 15¾ inches.

Sixth Session, Wednesday Evening

1274—LOUIS QUINZE CLOCK

In Boule case of inlaid and engraved brass and ebony. Decorated in a pattern of rococo scrolls, acanthus leaves and shells, and mounted in wrought and chased ormolu. White enamel dial, with pierced and engraved gilt hands. Boule bracket of inlaid and engraved brass and ebony, on three scroll supports of inlaid ebony, mounted in ormolu.

Height, 30 inches.

1275—OLD SHERATON CASE BRACKET CLOCK AND BRACKET

Of the period and in the manner of Sheraton. Satinwood case mounted with arches of ormolu and with lion-headed ring handles, on four ball feet. Front inlaid with a pattern of interlacements and lines in satinwood. White enamel dial with steel hands. Molded and fluted bracket set with arched panels of brass-work over red silk. Signed "Puckridge of London."

Height, 25½ inches.

1276—SHERATON MAHOGANY CASE MUSICAL BOX

Case of mahogany inlaid with lines of satinwood and bands of kingwood. Shaped as a bracket clock, with bracket feet. Circular white enamel clock-like dial, having around the rim the names of the old English tunes played by the musical box on a chime of bells and a clock-like hand of pierced steel. Maker's name: "George Brown, Beverley."

Height, 14½ inches.

1277—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

Mechanical striking clock, in square case with shaped domed top mounted in English ormolu. Dial plate of gilt bronze, pierced and chased in a rococo scroll pattern. On shaped bracket feet. Engraved, bob pendulum movement. Strikes the hours, half hours, and quarters. Maker's name: "Thomas Martin" (London, 1692).

Height, 15½ inches.

1278—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CHIMING LANTERN CLOCK

Square brass case with arched lantern top, engraved frets pierced in a pattern of bold scrollings, angle supports of turned brass columns, turned finials and four ball feet. Silver dial with Roman numerals and one pierced steel hand. Chimes upon seven bells with a separate large bell for striking.

Height, 14 inches.

NOTE: This is one of the two or three known examples of an English lantern clock with chimes.

No. 1279

1279—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH LACQUER BRACKET CLOCK

Chiming clock in arched case, with shaped cupola top and turned brass finials and brass swing handles on heavily molded base. Decorated with a Chinoiserie design, in English lacquer, of floral medallions and shaped panels of flowers and scrolls on a diapered ground and with sunken panels of raised acanthus leaf scrollings painted and gilded. The dial is of brass with applied spandrel ornamentations of pierced and chased brass, silver dial rims, and pierced steel hands. Signed at the bottom and in the front "William Tomlinson of London." Chimes the hours and quarters on six bells and strikes on a separate bell.

Height, 27 inches.

NOTE: W. Tomlinson, who became a member of the Clock Makers' Union in 1699, was noted, according to Britten, for his lacquer clock cases.

Sixth Session, Wednesday Evening

1280—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

In black case inlaid with bandings of brass, with stepped top, molded brass base and brass ball feet. Pierced scale patterned panels of brass at the sides and shell ring handles. White enamel dial with pierced brass hands. Made by James McCabe (London, 1778-1786).

Height, 17 inches.

1281—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY BRACKET CLOCK

English musical and chiming clock, in square ebonized case, with molded and domed top, mounted, in chased ormolu, with female Terms and floral pendants at the angles, side panels of an arabesque pattern in pierced ormolu over red silk, and vase and flame finial. The case is of ebony flanked by openwork scrollings of ormolu. Silver dial plate with Roman numerals, and two small dials, one giving the names of the airs played and the other controlling the striking movement. Pierced steel hands. Maker's name, "George Margettes, London" (1779-1799).

Height, 26 inches.

1282—OLD FRENCH BRACKET CLOCK AND BRACKET

Gilt case of wood carved in a Louis Seize design of scrollings, acanthus leaves and laurel-leaf festoons, surmounted by a classic urn with festoons of drapery. Bracket carved with ram's head and acanthus leaves. White enamel dial and pierced steel hands.

Height, 49 inches.

1283—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock of mahogany. Arched top case with fluted Ionic columns at the angles having gilt bronze capitals and bases. Brass swing handles with escutcheons of pierced brass. Revolves on a mahogany base. Dial with raised, pierced and chased ornamentation and spandrels of gilt bronze. Above is an arched opening occupied by a revolving painting of the Sun. Chain driven movement, chiming the hours and quarters and playing seven airs on twelve bells.

Height, 30 inches.

1284—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

In ebony case mounted in ormolu, and with bands of pierced ormolu on a red paper ground. Shaped domed top with looped carrying handle. White enamel dial surrounded by a design in ormolu surmounted by a painted panel of a river scene with children. Brass hands. Strikes the hours, half hours and quarters upon twelve bells.

Height, 26 inches.

Sixth Session, Wednesday Evening

1285—LOUIS QUINZE BRACKET CLOCK

Shaped Boule case of inlaid and engraved brass and ebony with rococo mountings of ormolu. Supported by four scrolled and acanthus feet of ormolu on which are ormolu figures of seated Cupids. The case is surmounted by a figure of a Roman warrior with his hand upon a shield bearing the insignia of the Order of the Golden Fleece. The dial is of chased and pierced ormolu with numeral panels of white enamels having two sets of numbers. Pierced steel hands. Maker's name: "Gille l'Ainé à Paris."

Height, 45 inches.

(Illustrated)

1286—LOUIS QUINZE BRACKET CLOCK AND BRACKET

Shaped and painted case of ebonized wood, with rococo mountings of pierced and chased ormolu. White enamel dial, with radiating panels occupied with two sets of numbers. Pierced and engraved hands. Shaped bracket, decorated with paintings of floral spray in gold on a black ground, and with elaborate scrollings of pierced and chased ormolu. Maker's name: "Cabot Le Jeune à Paris."

Height, 53 inches.

1287—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH HANGING CLOCK

Mahogany carved and molded case, with fret-work panels. White enamel dial, with painted Roman numerals. Pierced steel hands. Crown escapement movement, presenting some unusual features. Striking hours and quarters. Maker's name: "Alexander Cummings, London."

Height, 23 inches.

NOTE: Alexander Cummings was the author of a treatise on clock work published 1766, and made a celebrated clock for George III, receiving a salary of £200 a year for looking after it.

1288—"HONEST" GEORGE GRAHAM'S FAMOUS ORRERY CLOCK

Ebony case of upright octagonal design with molded cornice, base and feet. In front is a panel giving access to a dial plate of chased and engraved brass with a circular silver dial rim. Above is a brass plate engraved George Graham. The dial shows two circles of figures running from 1-12 inclusive, the figure twelve in both cases being in Roman the other figures in Arabic characters. The flat top has a silvered circular band engraved with the signs of the Zodiac, the days of the month and the numbers 1-31 inclusive. In the center of this, on a small steel rod, is a silvered globe engraved to represent the terrestrial sphere, while from the silvered rim projects a globe representing the Moon. From the center of the top itself projects an ormolu sphere representing the Sun with a pointer directed towards the Earth. When the clock is in motion the Earth revolves on its own axis and also around the Sun, while the Moon revolves on its own axis and passes around the Earth. In other words, the Orrery represents, with approximate exactness, the movements of the Earth around the Sun and of the Moon around the Earth. In a walnut carrying case with brass handles.

NOTE: "Honest" George Graham, one of the most celebrated of seventeenth century English watchmakers and buried under the same tombstone as his great contemporary, Tompion, devoted the later years of his life to the perfection of this Orrery Clock. By it he hoped to attain everlasting fame but, though its tradition was always preserved, the clock for many years seems to have disappeared. Only comparatively recently did it come to light again and find its way into the possession of its present owner.

1289—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY IVORY AND ORMOLU MOUNTED BAROMETER

Formed as a classical column with spirally fluted shaft and molded bands of chased gilt bronze, on an oblong pedestal and molded base inlaid with lines of ebony. This column supports an oblong silvered and engraved thermometer plate in which are engraved, in French, the barometrical stages. This plate is enclosed in a rectangular case of brass with a flat chased diaper pattern plated with silver, surmounted by an arched panel occupied with the royal monogram of two L's surmounted by a crown and flanked by two turned finials of gilt bronze. Below is a tablet of engraved gilt bronze inscribed "Baromètre Portatif par S Manceel, Rotterdam." The surface of the gilt bronze has been almost entirely covered by a mercury amalgam caused by the accidental breakage of the barometer tube.

Height, 35½ inches.

NOTE: Daniel Quare was one of the best clock-makers of the seventeenth century who patented a "portable" barometer. This barometer, in the details of its case and in every other respect, resembles the one made by Quare and illustrated by Britten on page 298. It is probable that this was ordered from the Dutch instrument maker whose name it bears by Louis XIV, purchased by the latter from Quare and engraved by him with his own name.

1411—THE CELEBRATED “ROB ROY” SILVER BUTTONS

Eighteen large and seven small plain spherical buttons of silver of seventeenth century manufacture.

NOTE: These buttons were made in the first place for the father of the famous outlaw, McGregor of Glengyle. After his death they were habitually worn by Rob Roy himself and were finally inherited by his direct descendant, Gregor McGregor of Ardnamad near Dunoon. He wore them to the day of his death and left them to his life-long friend and cousin John Campbell of Poltalloch, from whose son, Mr. Colin Campbell, they were acquired by Mr. Stewart of Rawcliffe, Langside, near Glasgow. From the well-known Rawcliffe Collection they passed into the hands of the present owner. (An interesting M.S., detailing their history, accompanies these buttons.)

INTERESTING COLLECTION OF XVIII CENTURY CARVINGS BY J. VOYEZ

One of the most picturesque figures of Eighteenth century England, Jean Voyez, the French émigré, is chiefly known to the Collector by some of his admirably modeled potteries, such as the “Fair Hebe” pitcher and by his lifelong conflict with Josiah Wedgwood. Of late years, however, recognition has been accorded to what are now known to collectors as “Voyez” carvings. Designed to occupy the lids of boxes and for other decorative purposes, these are the most dainty little modelings imaginable. They are neither in wax nor ivory, but a composition of his own, partaking of the natures of both. It is believed that it was the merit of these carvings that procured for him admission to the Royal Society of Arts of Great Britain.

A CURIOUS COLLECTION OF XVIII CENTURY ENGLISH MECHANICAL, MUSICAL AND CHIMING CLOCKS

This group of clocks has a double interest. In the first place the movements represent the mechanical ingenuity of the English clockmakers of the Eighteenth Century when it had reached its utmost pitch of perfection while the cases stand for a curious combination of European and Chinese artistry. In some instances, entirely of European, in others partly of European and partly of Chinese manufacture they are all of a character to delight the oftentimes ingenuous eyes of the Princes and Mandarins for whom they were fashioned.

It was during the late Boxer risings that they came into the possession of an English merchant in Hong-Kong, by whom, a few years later, they were brought to England.

1669—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH TABLE CLOCK

Drum shape with sides of chased ormolu pierced in a scroll pattern over red silk. White enamel dial painted with Chinese numerals. Single pierced hand. Inner dial of brass with "Peepng Tom" opening showing the months also in Chinese characters.

1682—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Striking clock in chased ormolu case, with applied pierced scrollings and a pinnacle top with urn-shaped finials. White enamel dial, with spandrels of floral sprays on a blue ground, surmounted by an arched panel of a basket of flowers and floral sprays all in colored Canton enamels. Bob pendulum movement with back-plate engraved by a Chinese artist. Strikes on one bell.

Height, 13½ inches.

1683—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in chased and engraved ormolu case made in two portions. The lower of square form on scrolled feet with acanthus-leaf scrollings at the angles and applied medallions of chased ormolu of acanthus-leaf design, the upper of rectangular shape, with pierced, beaded and voluted consoles at the angles, contains in front a dial of white enamel with gilt hands and surrounded by a border of cut paste jewels. At the sides are shaped medallions of translucent enamels. Above is a domed cupola formed of fluted sections of engraved ormolu which open to disclose a column of twisted glass rods, and surmounted by a disc-like figure in front of which revolve two wheels set with cut paste jewels. At the angles are four pinnacle-shaped revolving finials set, in a spiral pattern, with cut paste. When the clock strikes the covering leaves of the cupola are raised, the glass rods within revolve, the two wheels above revolve in opposite directions, and the conical finials also revolve. Maker's name: "J. Mottran" (London, 1789-1794).

Eighth Session, Thursday Evening

1684—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in a chased ormolu frame surrounded by a lantern of classical design with urn finial, on a molded base with panels of applied chased ormolu. The lantern encloses a painted ivory carving of a Chinese pagoda surrounded by Chinese figures of painted ivory carrying articles emblematical of their trades. White enamel dial surrounded by floral wreaths painted in colored enamels and surmounted by a pierced design of plants, trees and a stream with a figure in a rowboat, at the back of which are twisted glass rods representing falling water. At the hours of striking the carved ivory figures in the lantern revolve as also do the glass rods simulating the waterfall. Strikes hours, half hours and quarters on mechanical musical chimes. Bob pendulum movement with engraved back-plate.

Height, 28½ inches.

1685—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in chased and engraved ormolu case with domed canopy top surmounted by an urn-shaped finial, molded base with band of bead ornamentation and four scroll feet of chased ormolu. White enamel dial with split seconds, hour and minute hands. Below are sailing ships which move on the striking of the hour. Bob pendulum movement. Maker's name: "Henry Borrell" (London, 1795).

Height, 24 inches.

Eighth Session, Thursday Evening

1686—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH BRACKET CLOCK

Mechanical and musical clock, in arched case with pinnacle top of ormolu. Decorated with applied ornamentation of musical and other trophies, floral wreaths and sprays, cornucopiae with flowers. The pinnacle with a band of applied imbricated ornamentation, oak leaves and acorns. On four scrolled and pierced feet. White enamel dial painted by a Chinese artist with an amusingly ineffectual attempt to reproduce English names. Quarter repeating striker with three independent chains. Plays tunes on ten bells. Maker's name: "Parkinson & Frodsham" (London, 1801).

Height, 31 inches.

1687—PAIR OF LOUIS SEIZE VASE CLOCKS

Ormolu cases formed as cantharus-shaped vases with scrolled winged gryphon handles, pierced and domed cover, and finial formed as a dove. On square pedestal with applied ornamentation of pierced and chased ormolu and bands of honeysuckle and beaded ornamentation. On four circular feet. The scroll handles of the vases are decorated in alternate red and green paste jewels, set in silver. Circular dial, surrounded by a rim of emerald and ruby paste jewels. Old French silk suspension movement.

Height, 26 inches.

(Illustrated)

1688—OLD FRENCH ORMOLU CLOCK

Empire period. Formed as an oval-shaped pavilion with a molded base, decorated with applied classical floral festoons, on which rest six composite Corinthian columns in clusters of three. The shafts of these are spirally encircled with an elaborate chased wreathing of flowers and leaves and spiral banding of burnished work. These columns support a frieze decorated with a pattern of classical pointed leaf design in chased and burnished ormolu. This cornice is crested with a pierced honeysuckle pattern having rosettes of chased and burnished ormolu, while above rises a domed top with an applied ornamentation of acanthus-leaf scrollings, the whole terminating in a finial of acanthus leaf and pineapple design. Between two of the columns is supported a white enamel clock dial surrounded by a rim of acanthus-leaf design in chased and burnished ormolu. Compensating pendulum of ormolu.

Height, 27 inches.

1690—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock in chased ormolu case surmounted by a lantern of classical design occupied with a figure of a Chinese Sage. A revolving jeweled Sun over the dial with falling water represented by revolving spiral glass rods, and moving men on horseback. Strikes hours, half hours and quarters with musical chimes. Bob pendulum movement with engraved back-plate.

Height, 29 inches.

1691—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in pierced and chased ormolu case. The lower portion consists of a square pedestal on scroll and ball feet with a pierced and chased cresting of balusters and floral scrolls and scroll and acanthus consoles at the angles. On the sides are two convex paintings on glass of figure subjects in the Chinese style surrounded by sprays of acanthus leaves. The front of this base is occupied by a circular medallion surrounded by a band of cut paste emeralds and occupied by a concave reflecter and a revolving wheel-like figure of pointed leaves of colored paste jewels set in silver and flanked by branches of flowers, leaves and ears of wheat. Above this is the circular clock dial supported on four acanthus-leaf supports and a column of revolving spiral glass rods above which is a band of ormolu with projecting fish from whose mouths depend four revolving spiral glass rods. At the base is a revolving ring to simulate water on which are modeled figures of ducks with moving heads and wings. At the four angles are leaf and flower forms set with colored paste stones, surrounded by revolving wheels set with colored paste. The dial is surmounted by an ormolu flower vase of similar revolving wheels. The striking of the clock puts the mechanical movement into operation. The glass rods revolve so as to simulate a falling column of water with jets of water issuing from the mouths of the fish, and the flower-vases, wheels and flowers revolve, as does also the medallion in the pedestal. The movement is an unusual one, comprising two distinct movements. Chimes and plays airs on twelve bells. Maker's name unknown, but probably James Cox of London.

1692—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and striking clock, in a chased and pierced ormolu case formed in two portions. The lower one is of rectangular form, occupied by a white enamel dial with gilt hands surrounded by a border of cut paste jewels and decorated in pierced and chased ormolu with figures of Nymphs holding flowers and floral garlands. The upper portion, on a square base, decorated with a pierced ormolu cresting and with panels of dark blue glass, consists of two drums of ormolu supported one above the other on a rococo scrolled stand. These drums are surrounded by borders of cut paste jewels in silver settings and are occupied by pierced revolving stars set with cut paste jewels. When the clock strikes these stars and arrangements of twisted glass rods revolve in contrary directions. The movement is of three separate actions working in conjunction, and of an independent striking movement.

(Illustrated)

1693—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, wrought and chased ormolu case. The base represents a rocky water-fall on which stands a pagoda-like erection of chased and pierced ormolu, with engraved silver columns set with vertical bands of colored paste jewels, and doors of white-veined agate with vertical bands of colored paste jewels set in silver. This is surmounted by a lantern of pierced and chased ormolu with slabs of onyx in front of which are two Suns set with colored pastes and revolving in opposite directions. Above is a conical-shaped pinnacle set with paste jewels which also revolves. White enamel dial surrounded with artificial pearls set in silver. The hands are set with seed pearls. The two side doors open and display a column of water simulated by spiral glass rods. Openings in the front and base disclose similar arrangements of glass rods, while openings at the sides disclose painted landscapes and figures and stags with movable heads and a man on horseback flying a movable kite. When the clock strikes, the glass rods, Suns and pinnacles revolve and the figures move. Maker's name: "Thomas Cox" (London, 1760-1788).

NOTE: Thomas Cox was a clever mechanician, who opened at Spring Gardens a museum of quaint clocks, singing birds, and costly mechanical toys. There were fifty-six pieces in the collection and the charge for admission was half a guinea.

1694—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in wrought, chased and engraved ormolu case formed in three tiers. The lower tier is octagonal shaped on four scroll feet, with an elaborately chased apron, bands of colored paste stones, borders of dark blue enamel, and floral scrollings of translucent enamels and gold, and four vase finials holding tree forms of wheels set with cabochon-cut paste jewels. The front of this section is occupied with a glass panel behind which are movable Chinese figures against a background of trees and revolving spiral glass rods. The sides are occupied with oval panels of Canton enamel painted by a Chinese artist with floral sprays, and surrounded by borders of cut paste jewels. The middle tier is rectangular-shaped with voluted consoles at the angles and applied ornamentations of pierced and scrolled ormolu. The sides have arched panels of a floral pattern in translucent enamels and the front is occupied with a white enamel clock dial surrounded by a rim of cut paste jewels. The top tier is formed as a Chinese pagoda of ormolu with an applied ornamentation of floral scroll designs and with a pinnacle roof of Chinese character, surmounted by a tree form of wheels hung with cabochon-cut paste jewels. This pagoda encloses moving Chinese figures with a painted landscape background. The clock stands on an elaborate Chinese pierced and carved base of sandalwood, teakwood and colored ivory, in two tiers. When the clock strikes, the figures in the pagoda and lower compartment move, while the jewel tree forms and vase revolve. English movement of two independent actions, working in conjunction, and playing airs upon twelve bells. Independent striking action.

Height, 45 inches.

Eighth Session, Thursday Evening

1695—EIGHTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH CLOCK

Mechanical, musical and chiming clock, in ormolu case. The lower portion, of hexagonal shape, is supported upon six standing lions on whose backs are carried tapering columns of blue glass, marbled in gold, with acanthus capitals surmounted with pierced railings and six urns of flowers with enameled leaves and cut crystal blossoms. The heads of the lions carry baluster-shaped stands of similar urns and flowers. The front of the case is paneled in pierced and chased ormolu backed by green silk, and the white enamel dial is surrounded by a ring of cut paste jewels. The upper part of the case has a pierced and painted panel in a design of birds and trees behind which is a series of twisted glass rods. Above this again rises a pinnacle-like superstructure in two divisions, the lower one of oval shape with a panel of pierced and painted iron work representing birds and trees behind which is a series of vertical twisted glass rods, the upper one of a drum-shape with a concave glass fronted panel of a pierced and painted representation of an architectural colonnade behind which is a moving figure of an elephant. Above this again are winged figures with streams of water, represented by twisted glass rods, flowing into the open mouths of dolphins beneath. The whole is surmounted by a finial of a vase of flowers on a pedestal fringed with colored glass beads and containing a cluster of flowers and leaves in colored enamels and cut glass. There are elaborate floral borders of cut paste jewels set in silver, and a white enamel dial with pierced gilt hands and a pierced split second hand. Below the dial is an oblong panel of glass behind which is painted a landscape with movable ship in full sail. When the clock strikes, the mechanical movement is set in motion, the glass rods revolve, the ship sails across the sea, the elephant moves, and so forth. Movement with three independent actions, striking the chimes and playing airs on twelve bells and striking on a separate bell.

Height, 43 inches.

Eighth Session, Thursday Evening

1696—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY GERMAN TALL CLOCK

Plain mahogany case of later date. The dial exhibits a very rich decoration in chased gilt bronze. The numerals are painted on spade-shaped concave tablets of white enamel. Above the main dial are two rims of white enamel, one with the days of the month, the other with the names of six airs originally played by the clock. The decoration of the dial-plate consists of a center medallion of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden surrounded by animals, and subjects of the four Seasons in the spandrels. The smaller dials are occupied with pastoral figure subjects. Above is a large human eye in colored enamel which moves with each stroke of the pendulum. The hands are of pierced steel. Early bob pendulum movement. Strikes hours and quarters on two bells.

Height, 78 inches.

Height, 22½ inches; length, 23½ inches; breadth, 18 inches.

NOTE: This unusual piece of furniture was undoubtedly made to order.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2047—CHIPPENDALE MAHOGANY WINDOW SEAT

Of the period and in the manner of Chippendale. Cabriole legs with acanthus-leaf brackets, carved acanthus-leaf scrollings at the ends, and feet formed as volutes with acanthus-leaf carvings. Seat and ends upholstered. On original brass castors.

Height, 27 inches; width, 39 inches.

2048—GEORGIAN CONVEX CARVED AND GILT WOOD MIRROR

In very elaborate carved and gilt wood frame. Surmounted by an eagle with outstretched wings holding in its claws two serpents, and flanked by boldly carved acanthus-leaf scrollings. Below are similar acanthus scrollings ending with pendants of carved bunches of grapes. Original gilding.

Height, 72 inches; diameter of mirror, 23½ inches.

2049—SHERATON WRITING TABLE

Of satinwood inlaid with lines of kingwood. Knee-hole bow front fitted with nine drawers with turned ebony knobs. Shaped bracket feet. The top is covered with the original stamped green morocco leather.

Height, 30 inches; length, 43 inches; depth, 21 inches.

2050—CHIPPENDALE MAHOGANY TIP TABLE

Of the period and in the manner of Chippendale. Tripod base with tapering pedestal and three shaped and molded legs. Plain circular top.

Diameter, 28 inches.

2051—GEORGIAN CHESTNUT TABLE

Of the period and in the manner of Chippendale. Cabriole legs ending in acanthus leaf feet and enriched with rococo carvings of scrolls, shells and flowers. The apron on all four sides is pierced and carved with a very elaborate pattern of masks, branches of grape leaves and flowers. The top has a pierced and carved border of acanthus scrolls and floral sprays.

Height, 30½ inches; length, 49 inches; depth, 27 inches.

NOTE: This table offers a very noteworthy example of the best work of the period and was undoubtedly made when Chippendale was at the height of his fame, and derives additional interest from the wood of which it is made.

2052—CHIPPENDALE MAHOGANY LION MASK TABLE

Cabriole legs with claw and ball feet and acanthus scrolled knees. Top with edge carved in a pattern of gadroons and shaped apron carved with a large lion mask in the center flanked by bold acanthus scrollings.

Height, 30 inches; length, 56 inches; depth, 27 inches.

NOTE: This table is noteworthy for its exceptional yet untouched condition.

2053—HEPPLEWHITE SIDE TABLE

Probably by Hepplewhite. Of "Fiddle-back" maple inlaid with broad bands of satinwood. Semi-circular top with tapering legs and spreading feet. The top is inlaid with panels of finely grained "fiddleback" maple occupied with shell ornamentation in burnt satinwood and with a broad band of satinwood having a meander-pattern of flowers and leaves in colored and etched woods. The apron is inlaid with satinwood giving the effect of groups of flutings and with rectangular panels of satinwood occupied with oval medallions of amboyna wood. The legs are inlaid with lines of satinwood and with pendants of a husk pattern in colored and etched woods. The feet are of ebony inlaid with satinwood. In original condition.

Height, 33 inches; length, 51 inches; depth, 22½ inches.

2054—SHERATON MAHOGANY KIDNEY SHAPED WRITING TABLE

By Thomas Sheraton. Kidney shaped top on vase shaped turned pedestal, and four radiating curved and tapering spreading legs. Plain apron with bands of satinwood inlay, fitted with five drawers which open in either direction, with a molded Sheffield plated rim and with a band of mahogany inlaid with lines of satinwood. The top is covered with old crimson baize. Two of the drawers are fitted with compartments for writing materials.

From the Collection of Captain C. M. Leslie, Slindon House, Sussex.

Height, 30 inches; length, 51 inches; breadth, 32 inches.

NOTE: This characteristic table is known to have been made by Thomas Sheraton to the order of one of his noble customers.

2055—OLD SHERATON COMMODE

Of mahogany inlaid with satinwood, tulipwood, kingwood and colored woods. Serpentine front and sides. Top inlaid with branches of roses, leaves and birds and with a border of etched satinwood and kingwood. The drawers are bordered with inlaid bands of tulipwood and are decorated with festoons of flowers and leaves inlaid in colored woods. The handles, lock escutcheons and mountings are of molded and chased ormolu.

Height, 33½ inches; length, 46 inches; depth, 21 inches.

NOTE: It is very seldom one finds a piece of English furniture so closely resembling the French model.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2056—OLD SHERATON SOFA TABLE

Of satinwood inlaid with lignum vitae. Curved tapering spreading feet and legs enclosing galleries of turned spindles. The top is of very beautifully grained satinwood inlaid with a border of lignum vitae. The center portion of the top is formed as a hinged lid giving access to the interior, which is arranged as a combined lady's dressing table and work box, and fitted with six old English cut glass bottles.

From the Collection of Captain Leslie of Slindon House, Sussex.

Height, 2 feet 5 inches; length, 5 feet 1½ inches; depth, 2 feet 2 inches.

2057—OLD CHIPPENDALE MAHOGANY CHAIR

Cabriole legs with carved and scrolled ball feet, and with finely carved masks at the knees, carved aprons in front and at the sides. High back with top rail recarved in a design of masks and scrolls. The back and seat are upholstered and covered with eighteenth century English crewel-work embroidery in a design of bold scrollings, leaves and borders on a white linen ground.

2058—OLD ENGLISH CHIPPENDALE PIE-CRUST TABLE

Tripod support with oval feet, turned pillar and molded “pie-crust” top.

Height, 2 feet 4¾ inches; diameter, 1 foot 5 inches.

2059—SHERATON WORK TABLE

On tripod support enriched with a band of carved guilloche pattern, turned and fluted stem, and turned spindle feet. The top is fitted with drawer and with fall down brackets and flaps. Original ormolu knobs to drawers.

Height, 28 inches; length, 21 inches; depth, 14 inches.

2060 GEORGIAN CONVEX MIRROR

Carved and gilt wood frame with ball decoration, surmounted by an eagle with outstretched wings flanked by acanthus leaf scrollings. Below are bold scrollings of a rococo character with a pendant of a bunch of grapes. Original gilding.

Height, 5 feet 5 inches; diameter of mirror, 2 feet 4½ inches.

2061—QUEEN ANNE MAHOGANY AND MARBLE HALL TABLE

Cabriole legs with carved paw and ball feet with carved fetlocks, and bold acanthus scrolls at the knees. Molded apron with a carved lion's mask in the center. Partially gilt with contemporary oil gilding. Massive top of an exceptionally decorative piece of grained purple and white marble.

Height, 2 feet 11 inches; length, 4 feet 6 inches; depth, 2 feet 6 inches.

NOTE: Though this exceptionally fine table was probably made some five or six years after the actual death of Queen Anne, it is thoroughly characteristic of the design of her period. Evidently it was one of the first important pieces of furniture to be made in the newly introduced mahogany.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2062—BRONZE BUST OF W. E. HENLEY BY RODIN

No. 2062

Portrait head, in bronze, on a circular pedestal.

Height, 23 inches.

NOTE: A very peculiar significance attaches to this portrait by the greatest of French sculptors of a distinguished English man of letters. Henley, as Editor of the "Magazine of Art," was among the first of his nation to recognize the genius of Rodin and to familiarize his countrymen with his work and his name. It was, therefore, a labor of love for Rodin to put into enduring form the lineaments of his friend. At Henley's death in 1903 the bust became as a treasured possession of his family by whom a few years later it was lent to Rodin himself in order that he might make from it a replica in marble. This was presented by him to the English nation and took its final place, on July 11, 1907, in St. Paul's Cathedral, where it was unveiled by the Earl of Plymouth.

Of William Ernest Henley himself it is sufficient to say that, apart from his fame as a poet and as a close friend of Robert Louis Stevenson, he was for many years one of the most formative influences in modern English literature. As Editor of the "National Observer" he gathered about him that brilliant band known as "Henley's young men," many of whom, as in the case for instance of H. G. Wells, have taken their place among the leading writers of our day.

Purchased from the Henley family after Mr. Henley's death.

2062A—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY BRONZE BUST OF CHARLES I

By Giovanni Lorenzo Bernini (1598-1680). Portrait bust of Charles I of England, modeled by Bernini after a portrait by Van Dyck, showing the King with mustache and pointed beard and long curling hair reaching, on the left side, to the shoulder, in armored corslet having lions' head shoulder pieces, and with a falling collar. On contemporary shaped marble base.

From the collection of Mrs. T. G. Arthur of Carrick House, Ayr, Scotland.

NOTE: This is a bust of very extraordinary interest. It is undoubtedly a replica by the most eminent Italian sculptor of the seventeenth century of the bronze bust he modeled for the King himself in 1635. This bust was consumed in the fire which destroyed Whitehall in 1691. An engraving of it by Mazella was published in 1695, as was another from a drawing made by J. Richardson in 1700. The bust itself, however, has always been regarded as one of the world's first masterpieces of art. Bernini, who was considered the leading sculptor of his generation, modeled, besides this bust of Charles I, portraits of Cardinal Richelieu and Louis XIV of France.

2063—PAIR OF LOUIS SEIZE BRONZE STATUETTES

Figures of a nude boy and girl upon square pedestals. The girl, symbolizing "Reading," holds in her lap an open book over which she pores meditatively. The boy, symbolizing "Pictorial Art," holds in one hand a sketching tablet on which he draws with a crayon in a holder held in his right hand. He follows the course of his pencil with rapt attention. On plain rectangular bronze bases.

Heights, 18 inches and 17½ inches.

NOTE: These figures represent the very highest water-mark of the late Eighteenth Century School of French Sculpture. Though not signed they were probably modeled by Clodion.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2064—LOUIS SEIZE CLOCK WITH MARBLE FIGURE BY FALCONET

Of white marble and ormolu. Circular clock case surmounted by a figure in white marble of a Nymph draping a Cupid with a garland of flowers. The figures are supported by sculptured clouds of marble, on which are a pair of billing and cooing turtle-doves and a Cupid's Quiver. The molded base of marble is decorated with panels of pierced and wrought ormolu exquisitely ciselé in a pattern of acanthus scrollings and flowers. This base is supported on six feet of ciselé ormolu. White enamel dial with Roman hour numerals and Arabic minute numerals.

Height, 27 inches; width, 17 inches.

NOTE: Though unsigned, as is so often the case with the works of Falconet, this figure has received the unqualified endorsement of leading French and English critics as being worthy to take its place with such celebrated examples of his decorative genius as the "Three Graces" at Windsor Castle. It is somewhat of any irony of fate that Etienne Maurice Falconet should in our day be esteemed not so much by his more serious works such as the great equestrian Peter the Great at Moscow, which he himself deemed his masterpiece, as by what he doubtless considered his more negligible decorative clock mountings. Such an example, however, as is here considered, is sufficient to show how supremely graceful were his conceptions, how prepossessing in their delicate simplicity, and how convincing in the surety of their technical execution.

2065—PAIR OF LOUIS SEIZE BRONZES

School of Jean-Baptiste Pigalle. "Hunting & Fishing." Represented in the one case as a child holding a deer and blowing a hunting horn supported by another child holding a hunting spear, at their feet a dead bird; in the other as two female children, one of whom is preparing to cast a net, the other holding a captured fish in her hand. On octagonal molded bronze bases.

Heights, 13 inches.

(Illustrated)

2066—LOUIS QUATORZE CLOCK OF GILT BRONZE

Formed as a trumpeting elephant carrying on his back a houdah on which rests the clock dial which is flanked by branches of flowers and leaves in molded and chased ormolu and surmounted by a Chinoiserie subject of a Chinaman holding an umbrella. On a rococo base of scrollings, rock work, leaves and flowers. Maker's name, "Mayer à Paris."

Height, 19½ inches; length, 10 inches.

2067—LOUIS SEIZE CLOCK

Case of white marble surmounted by a sculptured subject of two Cupids reading a book and two doves billing and cooing. On shaped and molded white marble base, with panels of pierced and chased ormolu. On six ormolu feet. White enamel dial with pierced gilt hands. Silk suspension, striking hours and quarters.

Height, 17 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

2068—LOUIS QUATORZE CLOCK OF GILT BRONZE

Formed as the figure of a lion supporting on his back the dial which is flanked by scrollings and surmounted by a classical urn festooned with laurel leaves and berries. On an ebony base decorated with branches of oak leaves and acorns and by acanthus leaf medallions of wrought and chiseled ormolu. On four circular feet of ormolu with lotus leaf ornamentation. Maker's name, "Cronier à Paris."

Height, 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches; length, 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

2069—OLD LOUIS SEIZE CLOCK

Striking clock, surmounted by two female figures of bronze. One represents "Justice" holding a scroll in one hand and a sword in the other, the other "Education" writing on a tablet which she supports on her knee. At the back is an urn of flowers in ormolu, on a rectangular base of ormolu molded and chiseled in a pattern of bold acanthus leaf scrollings. On marble bases with four ball feet of ormolu. White enamel dial with Arabic numerals and pierced and chased gold hands.

Height, 17½ inches; length, 16 inches.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2070—LOUIS SEIZE “READING & WRITING” CLOCK

Of bronze, ormolu and marble. The clock dial is supported on a square ormolu pedestal decorated in a relief subject of two Cupids and surmounted by an ormolu figure of an eagle with outstretched wings. On either side of the dial are figures in bronze, one of a Nymph reading from an open book and the other of a Youth writing on a tablet which he holds in his lap. On a shaped marble base decorated with panels of ormolu pierced, wrought and chiseled in a design of a bearded mask flanked by Cupids with acanthus scrolled terminations, and by two sunken medallions of Medusa heads. On six fluted feet. Maker's name, “Faissant.”

Height, 21 inches; length, 27 inches.

2070A—PANEL OF SEVENTEENTH CENTURY FLEMISH TAPESTRY

Subject of Christ entering the Temple. By his side are a Roman Legionary and one of the Apostles.

Height, 8 feet 5 inches; width, 5 feet 5 inches.

No. 2072

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

2071—SIXTEENTH CENTURY BRUSSELS TAPESTRY

“The Battle of the Thundering Legion” after a design by Giulio Romano. In the center is a figure of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius on horseback surrounded by other mounted warriors on left and right. In the lower right hand corner a Roman legionary and a German soldier are locked in a hand to hand conflict. The panel is surrounded by a broad border in a design of festoons of flowers having at the corners panels of parrots and other birds. Below is a shaped tablet inscribed “Prelum M. Aurelii.”

Height, 18 feet 7 inches; width, 7 feet 6 inches.

2072—SEVENTEENTH CENTURY FLEMISH TAPESTRY

On the right is a portico of classic architecture with three figures in classic costume. One of these directs the attention of his companion to the third, who stands on the topmost step of the portico inscribing a stone tablet with the invocation, “NIHIL HIC INGREDIATUR MALI” (May nothing evil enter here). On the left is a wooded landscape with buildings and in the immediate foreground is a conventional verdure with broken classical columns.

*Height, 6 feet 8 inches; width, 12 feet 8 inches.
(Illustrated)*

2073—EARLY SEVENTEENTH CENTURY BRUSSELS TAPESTRY

A large panel of silk and wool tapestry, woven at Brussels after a design by William Van de Velde, the Elder. The subject is that of a view of a Flemish harbor having on the spectator’s left an imposing fortress, mounted with guns, on whose walls soldiers are seen on sentry duty, while in pavilions are parties of ladies. On the right is a rocky landscape with buildings and figures. Between these at the entrance to the harbor is a man-of-war saluting and partially hidden by the volume of smoke from the firing guns. Between this ship and the foreground are small boats, one a rowboat with fishermen casting a net, the other a sailboat preparing to land. On the spectator’s left in the immediate foreground is a pier on which fishermen are landing from a boat. On this pier is a fisherman unloading a catch of fish from a basket and a group of citizens conversing. On the right are a barrel-buoy and dolphins gamboling in the water and spouting. The tapestry is surrounded by a narrow inner border of very delicate execution in a design of fruits and flowers, and an outer ribbon and diapered border of a guilloche pattern.

From Lord Portsmouth’s Collection.

2074—SIXTEENTH CENTURY FRENCH MARRIAGE CHEST (COFFRET DE MARRIAGE)

Of applewood, elaborately carved. Rectangular shape, with corniced top, hinged lid with molded edge, molded base, and four block feet. The front is divided, by pilasters of composite Ionic design standing on acanthus leaf bases, into four round-arched paneled recesses with arches supported on classical pilasters. These contain symbolic figures carved in relief of a woman holding a crucifix (Religion), another stabbing herself with a sword held in both hands (Self-negation), another freeing a bird from a cage (Charity), and a fourth holding a chalice in her right hand (Faith). At the ends are smaller panels, one with the figures of two dancing women, the other with two women in sixteenth century costume, one holding a cup, the other a torch and a lantern. In the upper center of the front, blocked out and framed by a continuation of the molded top cornice, is a lockplate of very elaborately wrought and pierced steel in a fifteenth century design having a hinged key-hole cover shaped as a Gothic pinnacle decorated with a crowned fleur-de-lys (suggesting the royal origin of the chest). The key has wrought and pierced handle terminating in a fleur-de-lys ornamentation. Below the lock plate is a square panel carved with figures of the Virgin and Saint Joseph kneeling on either side of the new-born Christ. Above the roof of the shed are shepherds, sheep and a winged angel. The chest is supported on a base with four carved panels of a Renaissance arabesque design of acanthus leaf scrollings, vases and grotesque busts.

Eleventh Session, Saturday Afternoon

From the collection of W. H. Turner Baldwin, at Stede Hill, Kent.

Height, 3 feet; length, 5 feet 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches; depth, 2 feet 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

NOTE: This admirable chest is of interest for its mingling of fifteenth century Gothic and sixteenth century Renaissance details. Noteworthy, too, is the very beautiful patina, suggesting that on a fine bronze, which age and reverent handling have conferred upon it.

2075—OLD FRENCH HENRI DEUX WALNUT CABINET

Rectangular shape, in two portions. The upper arranged as a cupboard with two hinged doors, two drawers, has a molded cornice and frieze carved in high relief with cherubim heads at the angles and an eagle devouring a snake surrounded by a husk patterned festoon in the center. The doors, flanked by twisted turned columns with Ionic capitals, the center stile formed as an Ionic pilaster with floral and drapery festoons, have panels surrounded by deep moldings and decorated with carvings of the Annunciation, the Angel Gabriel in one and the Virgin in the other. The under portion is divided into two drawers and a cupboard with two hinged doors. The drawers have molded fronts flanked and supported by acanthus leaf consoles, the doors have turned and twisted columns at the angles and molded stiles formed as balusters with a branch and leaf pattern. The molded base is supported on four ball feet. The sides are treated with raised panels and plain Ionic columns at the rear. In absolutely original condition. From the Collection of Sir Charles Knightley, Fawsley Park, Northamptonshire.

Height, 5 feet 6 inches; width, 5 feet; depth, 2 feet 2 inches.

2076—SIXTEENTH CENTURY ITALIAN MILANESE STEEL CABINET

Of wrought, carved and ciséle steel damascened in gold with mounts of gilt bronze. Rectangular shape with molded cornice base and four claw feet of gilt bronze, and surrounded by a peristyle of columns with steel shafts damascened in gold in designs of Renaissance scrollings and arabesque and with Corinthian capitals and molded bases of gilt bronze. The upper surface of the bases on which the columns rest is of steel damascened in gold, with an arabesque patterning and an escutcheon of the armorial bearings of the Aldobrandini family, surmounted by a Cardinal's Hat. The panel of the central and the door fronts are all of wrought carved and ciséle steel damascened in gold and surrounded by moldings in gilt bronze. The subjects of all these panels are of episodes in Torquato Tasso's great epic poem, "Gerusalemme Liberata" (Jerusalem Delivered.) The subject of the large central door panel is "The Assault on Jerusalem by the Christians led by Goffredo." The subjects of the paneled drawer fronts are as follows: (1) The appearance of the Blessed Virgin in a vision to Goffredo. (2) The equestrian combat between Tancredi and Argante over the prostrate form of Otho. (3) The combat, on foot, between Rinaldo and Gernando, showing the death of the latter. (4) The duel with lances between Tancredi and Clorinda in the presence of the Christians and the Saracens. (5) The Baptism of the dying Clorinda by Tancredi, who carries the water in his helmet. (6) Tancredi succored by Erminia and her companions. On the sides of the cabinet are large panels of a lower relief than the front panels. One has a subject of Tancredi in the Enchanted Wood with the vision of Clorinda in the cypress tree "that upshot like a green pyramid to Heaven," the other a subject of Rinaldo meeting Armida in the forest.

Originally from the celebrated Marryat Collection and later from the Stewart Collection.

Height, 1 foot 5½ inches; width, 3 feet; depth, 1 foot 2 inches.

NOTE: This cabinet represents in a most admirable manner the crowning glories of the Italian cinquecento period and of that school of decorative metal-work with which the name of Benvenuto Cellini is so inseparably connected. When it was fashioned Cellini's tempestuous career must have closed, for Tasso's poem, which inspired these marvelously wrought panels, was not published till 1580 and Cellini died ten years earlier. The presence among the patterned damascenings of the Aldobrandini arms suggests that the cabinet was made for that Cardinal Aldobrandini, nephew of Pope Clement VIII, who was so helpful a patron of Tasso during the last sad years of his life. This would put the execution of the work at about the year 1590, a date borne out by the style and technical methods it exhibits.

2077—SUIT OF SIXTEENTH CENTURY GERMAN ARMOR

Cap-à-pie suit of early sixteenth century Maximilian armor probably made at Nuremberg about 1530. The suit is of the fluted type which came into fashion during the reign of the Emperor Maximilian (1459-1519) and became known by his name. It consists of a basinet with visor and gorget, cuirass with brassards and vambraces to protect the arms, laminated gauntlets for the hands, cuissards, or thigh pieces, jambes with knee pieces to protect the legs, and sabatons or square toed feet coverings. All these pieces are of finely wrought steel with raised ribbings or flutings.

From the Muirhead Moffatt Collection of Glasgow.

Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

2078—FOURTH CENTURY GALLO-ROMAN SCULPTURE

Of statuary marble. Sculptured in high relief with a subject of a Military Triumph. Standing in a Triumphal Car drawn by two Centaurs carrying captured standards, are two Gallie Warriors winged in token of victory, supporting between them a shield blazoned with an eagle, heraldically displayed, and surmounted by a Crown of Victory. The Centaurs are bestridden by winged Amorini, with two others seated in front bearing banners and two others behind blowing a triumphant fanfare on trumpets. Three other Amorini urge the Car onwards. Behind these are seen the figures of two captive Warriors with spears, one wearing an eagle-head Casque, the other a woolen head dress. Beneath the car is a bearded head of Janus. Alongside the Centaurs runs a dog.

From the Muirhead Moffatt Collection of Glasgow.

Height, 2 feet; length, 5 feet 3 inches.

NOTE: This commemorative tablet evidently decorated the interior of a temple or other building as it is entirely free from weather stains. It was probably the work of a Roman sculptor resident in Gaul in the time of Valerius and was made in commemoration of a Gallie victory over the Allemans or some other Teutonic tribe.

2079—FIFTEENTH CENTURY ENGLISH MUNIMENT CHEST

Henry VII period Gothic (1456-1509). Of cuir ciselé (tooled leather), steel and iron. Rectangular shape with hinged domed lid. The sides and top are covered with cuir ciselé and strapped with semi-hexagonal straps of wrought and chased steel with scallop shell terminations. Two of these are hinged and pierced to fit over hasps looped for the reception of the bows of padlocks, while another is also hinged and fitted with a hasp which fits into and catches the latch of a projecting lock. Flanking the lock plate are two pinnacles of wrought, pierced and chased steel fashioned in the form of steeple-turrets of late Gothic design. The front of the chest, immediately under the lid, is galleried with a band of double piercings, of Gothic design, over red leather, while a band of similar single piercings also over red leather extends around the sides. The swinging handle of the lid is of twisted wrought and pierced iron and at the sides are drop handles of wrought and twisted iron. The chest, with its semi-circular top, is completely covered in cuir ciselé elaborately tooled in a pattern of florid Gothic scrollings interspersed with coats-of-arms, labels across the lid containing Mediæval Latin inscriptions in Gothic characters and with figures of Saints. The chest was evidently intended for ecclesiastical uses. The lock mechanism is missing and the bullet padlock is of later (probably sixteenth century) make.

Height, 14½ inches; width, 22½ inches; depth, 13½ inches.

2086 PAIR OF ADAM TORCHÈRES

Of the period and designed by the Brothers Adam. Of carved, enameled and gilt mahogany. Formed as four voluted scrolled and shaped supports ending with rams' heads and draped with wreaths of very realistically carved flowers and leaves. The voluted ends of these supports stand upon four scroll acanthus leaves carved in very high relief, which are in turn supported by molded and quatrefoil shaped bases of acanthus leaf pattern. The rams' heads support the quatrefoiled fluted and beaded lamp stands which have finials of carved lotus flowers and leaves finished in white enamel and heightened with oil gilding. Mounted with three branched candelabra in gilt bronze of later date.

Height, 57 inches.

2087—REMARKABLE SHERATON CENTER WRITING TABLE

Of rosewood inlaid with satinwood. Knee hole, pedestal table of unusual design. The pedestals are fitted with drawers and trays. In the center of the top is a rising hinged flap which forms a writing desk. At the back is a square cupboard for stationery which travels forward on runners and has a hinged top to form an inclined desk. At the side of this are adjustable candle brackets and in front a projecting bracketed shelf on which may be supported a light. When pushed back into place this cupboard is flanked by two large consoles which are fitted as stationery cabinets. The knee hole opening has arched brackets on both sides.

Height, 3 feet 8 inches; length, 4 feet 6½ inches; depth, 3 feet 3 inches.

2088—OLD CHIPPENDALE PIE-CRUST TABLE

Probably by Thomas Chippendale. Tripod support of claw and ball feet, with very delicate acanthus leaf carvings at the knees. The pedestal is fluted and carved with acanthus leaves and a band of egg and dart pattern. The top of "pie-crust" pattern, tipping and revolving.

Height, 28 inches; diameter of top, 27 inches.

2089—OLD CHIPPENDALE MAHOGANY ARM CHAIR

Of the period and in the manner of Chippendale. Cabriole legs carved at the knees and feet with acanthus leaves. Shaped apron carved in a husk pattern and with scrolls and shells. Straight arms carved at the angles with acanthus leaves on cabriole supports. The large center compartment forms a well with two tiers of pigeon holes having hinged fall-down flaps, all completely covered with low relief carvings on a hatched background and decorated in so-called "poker work" with religious subjects. The lid has a central panel of the Crucifixion surrounded by smaller panels occupied by a Pieta, Saints and Angels, and by a border of flowers and animals. The lid of the inner compartment has a circular medallion of the Annunciation surrounded by smaller medallions of the Evangelists. The other lids have figures of Saints and ornamental borders. There are two carrying handles of wrought iron and pierced iron escutcheon. The chest is supported on four bracket feet probably of later date.

Height, 1 foot 6 inches; length, 2 feet 9 inches; depth, 1 foot 10 inches.

2111—WILLIAM AND MARY PERIOD INLAID WALNUT CABINET AND STAND

The cabinet, of rectangular shape, is divided into fourteen drawers and a center compartment. The drawers are bordered with deep bands of ebony and ivory inlays, and have centers of burr walnut inlaid with sprays of roses, carnations and peonies in colored and burnt woods. The central portion with two hinged doors bordered with a broad band of ebony and ivory is decorated with a shaped quatrefoil medallion bordered with lines of ivory and occupied by a cornucopia of tulips, roses, lilies and peonies in burnt woods and colored ivory. At the four angles are acanthus leaf scrollings in inlaid wood. The interior surfaces of the doors are veneered with burr walnut and decorated with oblong panels containing figures of soldiers in semi-classical clothing with swords and spears, inlaid in colored and burnt woods. The interior of the central compartment is divided into nine drawers and a recessed compartment, the sloping roof of which is a mirror. The floor inlaid with alternate squares of white and black wood. Sides of arched panels occupied by mirrors and the rear with an arched panel of burr walnut. A flight of miniature steps leads up to these inlaid alternately with light and dark woods, while the sides of the compartment are inlaid with arched panels containing figures of peasants. The stand is supported on twisted and turned legs and contains one long drawer, the front of which is inlaid with sprays of flowers in colored woods. The handles to the drawers are formed as shaped knobs of molded bronze.
